Article in Sunday Telegraph 12th July 2015.

Parramatta Rugby Club is aware of media reports in recent days with an article in The Sunday Telegraph on July 12 suggesting a merger with Penrith Emus and relocation away from the Two Blues spiritual home. The article we refer to is nothing more than media speculation.

However, we appreciate speculation may be unsettling for our players, sponsors and supporters and assure them we will continue to work to secure the long-term success of the club with the express consultation of our valued membership and corporate partners.

The Two Blues has made no secret of a desire to have a significant upgrade to council owned facilities which reflect the ambitions of the club.

Kind Regards
